

Celebrate The Problem-Solvers!

I have a problem!

I have oranges, but I want orange juice.

No problem!

My name is John Thomas White and I invented the orange juice squeezer in 1896. Enjoy your orange juice.

I have a problem!

I have wrinkled clothes I need to iron,
but no place to put my hot iron.

No problem!

My name is Sarah Boone and I improved the ironing board invention in 1887. I hope you enjoy your nice, ironed clothes.

I have a problem!

I have a nice car to drive but I'm afraid I'll have an accident.

No problem!

My name is Garrett Morgan. I invented traffic lights so it is safer to drive. Think about me when the lights change. Thanks, Mr. Morgan, you helped us all be safer.

I'm very tired and all my hair fell out!

Madame C.J. Walker's
Wonderful Hair Grower

No problem!

I'm Madame C.J. Walker. I invented hair products that conditioned black women's hair. I was the first black woman millionaire. I built a factory and employed many other black women.

Way to go, Madame C.J.!

I have a problem!

I am a wounded soldier in WWII. I need a blood transfusion, but how can I get blood and bandages out here on the battle field?

No problem!

My name is Dr. Charles Drew. I invented a way to deliver blood plasma to all wounded soldiers. I also started the blood bank and helped organize the Red Cross!

You sure saved a lot of lives, Dr. Drew.

I have a problem!

My name is Bessie Coleman. I wanted to be a great airplane pilot but no one would give me flying lessons because I was a woman and black.

No problem!

I went to France and got flying lessons and became the very first black woman to get an International Pilots License. I became a famous daredevil stunt pilot.

Fly high, Queen Bessie!

I have a problem!

I would like to squirt water on kids and get them all wet, but I don't know how to do it.

No problem!

My name is Lonnie Johnson. I'm an engineer but I also invented the super soaker. Now you can get your friends soaking wet. Whoo-ha!
